We're here for you

A diagnosis of a blood cancer can have a huge impact on someone emotionally, as well as physically.

We understand that feelings of shock, anger and loneliness are all common at the time of diagnosis, during treatment and recovery. Having someone to talk to, as well as the right information available can be a huge comfort.

We not only support patients, but family, friends and loved ones too who can often carry a lot of the emotional strain when someone they love is diagnosed with a blood cancer.

Prefer talking on the phone?

Our helpline is open five days a week to answer your questions, offer you advice and listen.

The helpline is free to call from a landline or mobile phone.

You can speak to a nurse every Monday 9am - 5pm, Tuesday to Thursday 9.15am - 2pm and Thursdays and Fridays from 7pm until 10pm.

Receive support from others

Our support groups and patient conferences provide help and advice in your local area.

Our support services are free of charge and are a great way to meet others who understand how you feel.

If you are unable to come to our patient meetings, we also offer a buddy scheme, online forums and Facebook groups.

Leukaemia is a cancer of the blood.

It affects people of all ages.

Each year, over 9,000 people in the UK are diagnosed with leukaemia.

Leukaemia Care is a national blood cancer charity supporting anybody affected by a blood cancer.

All of our patient and carer services are free of charge to access. You can receive support from us in a variety of ways.
